Site Plan Review Regulations Section 4.7 & Subdivision Regulations Section 7.7

Upon submission of an application, the Planning Director will determine whether the application requires engineering review, and whether the fees shall be paid in advance and placed in an escrow account.

SCHEDULE A applies to (i) applications that do not require engineering review, and (ii) applications that require engineering review and will be billed. Schedule A applications will typically include:

- boundary line adjustments,
- minor subdivisions,
- small-scale site plans, and
- conditional use permits.

SCHEDULE B applies to applications that require engineering review and that require engineering review fees to be paid in advance and placed in escrow. Schedule B applications will typically include:

- preliminary major subdivisions,
- final major subdivisions, and
- large-scale site plans.

The Planning Department will endeavor to notify the applicant as to which Schedule applies and whether engineer fees will be billed or paid in advance by no later than the Friday following the application submission deadline. If applicable, staff will also notify the applicant at that time the amount required for engineering review fees to be placed in escrow.
